...he has many sides.

Author's Notes:
This idea popped into my head while I was driving yesterday.

I watch him with Matias and Lauri. He is like a little brother, joining their antics. I'll never forget the pillow fight they had in Australia, I don't remember other time I laughed so hard.

He's polar opposite with Jens. He became a surrogate father. With him, Jens has serious moments and he listens so intently I'm not sure is such focus even human.

Every night, I see another side. Side that makes his age disappear. That hungry look in his eyes, his flushed cheeks as he crawls to me. I don't want him ever to change. He is mine.
